CRAWFORD'S

Quite the latest fad in the house waist is plush. It is made with very little fullness, and is beautifully finished with a soft silk plastron, or with white plush standing chemise collar, above the coat revers. The waist may be made in any color, some shade of red or "reddish" being preferred, and is worn with quiet, dark-colored skirts.

Crawford is showing a superb line of silk plushes in beautiful terra cotta shades; also, wine, garnet, mahogany, and all colors, including the new greens, at 55 cents a yard.

Friday Special.

Anybody can sell a black silk at 75 cents, but who ever offers a genuine guaranteed Regatta grosgrain, cashmere luster, and equal to a $1.75 quality in appearance, for 75 cents a yard? That's what Crawford'll do to-morrow.

We are making copies of an elegant French imported toque, that is found so extremely becoming.
We make them to suit any costume, and our prices just now are extremely low in millinery.

We are able to offer a line of one dollar and a half Foster patent gloves at one dollar a pair. A special Crawford bargain.

The best Excelsior mattresses,
$2.60, or with cotton top,
$3.50. All cotton or moss mattresses, $5.50. Curled hair, $20.
Feather pillows, $2 to $3.75.

THE BEST EXPOSITION.

The Only McNichols' Display.

It was Ho, for the Exposition!

And the jolly old fair!

The man is a good position

Is safe from a wanderer's care.

But after the scramble and hurry,

The tumult, the noise and fret,

The old life returns with its worry,

Its sorrows, and its and its regret.

Homeless, how many men wander,

Longing for quiet and rest!

Amidst the throng and the press,

On what could be wisest and best.

Changes of mind would be better

Than all through long years thus to roam.

Chained by hard poverty's fetter,

Living, but never at home.

Years as they pile up thick.

Leaving their sorrow and woe.

Heart-beats and slow pulses quicken,

Teaching the slow heart to feel.

Little ones look up for shelter

Help-makes grow weary of strife.

When man exists better than Sorrow must come to the wife.

Well, there's a hope for the weary.

Help for one who will seek.

Life nevermore need be dreary.

For for your home by the week

Make it a home and an altar.

Furnished with care and with taste;

Small sums and no one need fear.

You save what would sure go to waste.

As many a man knows, he spends his money

Week after week with "boon companions," money which spent in the right way would make this year-time some of which he dreams and for which his wife lingers. The safest system of saving in the world is to get a home furnished on the terms of the plan-ette (Trade Mark). THE ONLY McNICHOLS.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, October 18.—The weather was very fair and clear to-day for the third game in the great series. It was not as warm as it might have been, however, and probably for that reason the crowd was not so large as in the previous games. The attendees which have thus far attended the game at the Polo Grounds have proved a veritable surprise to the New York and St. Louis managers of people at each game. The crowds, however, cannot be said to have been really small, but they have certainly not been so large as the attractions warrant.

Yesterday's game was a great surprise to New Yorkers, who seemed to think that all the Giants that they were grossly wrong in the theory that the Browns were a lot of babies ready and anxious to yield to the superiority of the League champions, and they show it in their demeanor. The striking order of the men to-day was as follows:

BATTING ORDER.

St. Louis. New York.

Latham, 3b. Tiersan, r. f.

O'Neill, 1b. Keefe, c.

Comiskey, 2b. Ward, 2b.

Conner, 1b. Ryan, 3b.

Whitney, c. f. Keefe, c. f.

Boyle, 2b. Keefe, c. f.

King, 2b. Keefe, c. f.

The game began to-day with Kelly and Gaffney umpiring as before.

FIRST INNING.

For the Browns, Latham made a clean base his right past Richardson. Richardson flew out to Whitney, and O'Neill doubled himself with Latham on a bounding hit to Richardson which he could scarcely keep catching just as Latham came at him.

For King on five balls, and stole second with his first slide, which was really creditable to a League player. Ewing hit to King a head ball shot, which turned the tow-headed twister over on his head and Tiersan went to third. Richardson now came to bat and placed a hot grounder in Latham's territory on which Tiersan advanced to score, but he was thrown out at the plate. A passed ball advanced Ewing and Richardson each a base. The first of these two scored on Conner's sacrifice to Latham who hadn't time to place the ball home and Richardson went to third. He tallied a run on Ward's clean hit to Conner. Ward stole a second and a wild pitch brought him to third.

He was put out in an idiotic attempt to do what Buck Ewing and McCarthy and Latham and other great players have done successfully, namely, steal home base.

For St. Louis, Comiskey hit to short field an easy grounder, which Ward fielded. McCarthy was put out by Richardson and Conner, and Lyons was struck out.

For New York, Latham struck a high fly, which O'Neill judged and covered correctly.

O'Neill flew out to Latham quite innocently and Keefe followed his example.

THIRD INNING.

For St. Louis, White struck out. Boyle hit

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m. to-day, for Missouri are: Rain; warmer to-day; fair, colder on Friday; southerly winds, followed by easterly; cold snow on Friday.

This "yaller dog" in politics must go.

Trucking to the bosses is treason to Democracy.

Only nineteen days until the tariff-reform cyclone.

Only nineteen days until the ring sports "two lovely black eyes."

New York plays a great game in politics, but to base ball St. Louis can give her plenty.

A big vote will make a big majority for Cleveland and Thurman at the Exposition to-night.

The Republicans have laid a deep scheme to capture the Exposition to-night and every Democratic vote in St. Louis will be needed to defeat it.

The result of throwing telegrams in the waste-basket is the subsequent necessity of loading unsold papers on the slake wagon, as shown in our cartoon to-day.

WANTED—As a curiosity for exhibit, one report of a speech of the Democratic candidate for Governor of Missouri, published in his personal and party organ. A large reward will be given the finder.

There will be a grand opportunity for Democrats and Republicans to stuff the ballot-boxes to-night by packing the Exposition. The party which does the most packing will win in the stuffing.

It is right to vent indignation against the big Hunch of the wheat pit, it is right to direct some feeling against the little Hunches who do their little best to rob the wheat and reduce the loaf of the workman.

The Post-Dispatch's base ball extra as been on the street no later than fifteen minutes after the close of each game between the Browns and New Yorks. The Post-Dispatch holds the newspaper patent, and is the champion of the world in journalism.

The result of the vote in St. Louis is subtle and will certainly affect the result in the State seriously, one way or the other. A few of "the forcible and convincing" speeches of Mayor Francis did go good here. The Mayor should be invited to address the voters of St. Louis.

As Philadelphia Press quotes the Globe's abuse of the Mills bill and its use of a war tariff as the sentiments of a Democratic newspaper. Thus it is of usefulness denied the Globe at home, where it is known, is added to abroad upon account of same.

By a recent decision JOHN WANAMAKER covers from the United States $100,000 aish a wrongful railing of the Treasury which compelled him to pay in excess of duty, which, according to the court, had been charged upon ribbons. Reduction of the tariff does not reduce the amount which he bought the ribbons.

bons, but it enables WANAMAKER to contribute very liberally to the Republican campaign fund for the fight against tariff reduction. Mr. WANAMAKER raised $100,000 in two days among the millionaire Republicans of Philadelphia, and sent the money to New York for the special purpose of hiring Democrats in that city to watch the polls in the interest of the Republicans on election day.

A FRAUD EXPOSED.
The Republic claims that it gives its readers large amounts of telegraphic news. Does it ask its readers to treat as telegraphic news those items which it does not receive by telegraph, but which it lifts bodily out of the POST-DISPATCH of the day before?

In its columns this morning are the following telegrams which are either identical with those that appeared in yesterday's POST-DISPATCH or contain less news:

- Chicago—Unique Insurance Case.
- New York—Brew-Masters' Association.
- Lafayette, Ind.—Tippecanoe's Boat.
- Jacksonville, Fla.—Unfavorable Reports.
- Pittsburg, Pa.—Baron Carnegie's Revenge.
- Millburg, Pa.—A 13-Year Old Suicide.
- Chicago—Yerkes Impeachable.
- Boston—The Santa Fe's Financial Difficulties.
- Chicago—Western Freight Association.
- Calais—The Ville de Calais Explosion.
- Woodville, N. Y.—Barnard's Costly Work.
- Columbia, Mo.—Boone County All Right.
- Richmond, Va.—Locomotive Engineers.
- New York—New York in Tears.
- Washington—Senate and House of Representatives.
- New York—West Shore Tunnel Collapse.
- Illness, N. Y.—A Remarkable Discovery.
- Toronto, O.—Canada Will Fight Her Own Battles.
- Minneapolis—Dakota Farmers Starving.
- Columbia, S. C.—Evolution Gaining Ground.
- Washington—Bond Officers.
- Washington—New Lumber Trade.
- Clinton, Mo.—Missouri Baptists.
- Mahomet, Ill.—Shot His Father.

In other words, the Republic's base ball news, congressional news, strike news, yellow fever news, labor news, political news, and nearly all of its interesting personal and general news had already appeared in the POST-DISPATCH. We do not mention the markets and Wall street, because no morning paper has any news under those heads except what we have already published. Among these telegrams are a great many specials to the POST-DISPATCH which appear word for word in the Republic as its own specials, a fraud that no reputable paper would be guilty of.

The readers of the Republic deserve better treatment from the new editor.

HABITUAL ABSENTEEISM.

If an employee of a business house should persistently neglect his duties and remain away from his place he would be discharged as incompetent and unfaithful.

If the proprietor or manager of a trade or manufacturing establishment should habitually keep away from his office and fail to attend to his duties, the business would certainly go to wreck and his reputation as a business man would be ruined.

If President CLEVELAND or any other holder of an elective office of great importance and prominence should put in all of his time junketing and campaigning over the country to secure his re-election, and should delegate what duties he could to a private secretary and neglect the others, he would be considered unfit for his office and would more likely lose than gain by such conduct.

Yet the Mayor of St. Louis habitually absents himself from his office and neglects important duties or delegates them to a subordinate. Out of the past fifteen working days he has spent two in the city as the Mayor of which he draws pay. This occurrence is not unusual or occasional, but is a sample of habitual conduct for over a year. He acts thus in order that he may secure a higher office from the people. In other words, he neglects one office, for which he draws pay, to gain a better one.

What assurance have the people of the State of Missouri that the vaulting ambition of Mr. FRANCIS will be satisfied when he becomes Governor and that he will not neglect the duties of that office to secure another? Is not unfaithfulness in small things a sure promise of unfaithfulness in great things?

THE WAY TO REFORM.

HORACE GREELY summed up his views on the subject of specie resumption in the emphatic expression: "The way to reform is to reform."

We may apply the expression to the political situation in St. Louis by making it read: "The way to reform is to reform."

We may add that the way not to reform is to preach reform with much volubility, but to refuse to practice it on the rare occasions when there is a chance to practice it.

The pretense of reform which is zealous about reforming the other party, but which shields and screens rascality in one's own party is not reform, but hypocrisy, treachery and fraud. A conspicuous and disgusting illustration of it is now on exhibition in St. Louis.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.
And Anti-Administration.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Will you kindly oblige me by giving the name of a single prominent Democrat who during this campaign has made a speech without abusing the opposing party? I have a leading towards Democracy, but shall feel obliged to vote for Republican unless I can have the desired information.

A HALF-WAY DEMOCRAT.

WHY OUR NEW VESSELS WOULD BE HELPLESS IN CASE OF WAR.

An Unreliable Defense—Partial Weakness of the New Cruisers—Importance of Coal Stations—Favorable of the United States in This Respect—Favorable Defense, Its Points of Strength and Weakness.

HOMAS W. VAN VLECK, of Brooklyn, who has for years been prominently connected with Crump's ship-yards, and who is being belatedly mentioned as a possible candidate for a POST-DISPATCH reporter at the Southern, "I read with a great deal of interest the interview with Secretary Whitney in relation to our means of defense against a foreign power in case of a sudden attack, and I am glad to see that the POST-DISPATCH a few days ago. With all due respect to the eminent authority from which it emanated, I cannot agree with him in the view of the situation he takes, and the estimate of the slight injury that a foreign fleet of modern ironclads could inflict.

THE FUEL QUESTION.
To be sure a few swift vessels, such as the cruisers recently built, would inflict great damage upon the merchant marine of an enemy as long as they were in condition to keep the sea, but not one of them could retain its offensive power three weeks after it left an American port. Secretary Whitney, like most others, does not seem to take into account the question of fuel, but as a matter of fact this is one of the most important factors of modern naval warfare on the high seas. In the case of a sudden attack, the only way to keep the sea is to be able to refuel in a friendly port. A vessel could not go on for more than a few days without refueling, and the only way to refuel is to go to a friendly port. The only way to refuel is to go to a friendly port. The only way to refuel is to go to a friendly port.

THE BLOCKADE.
Should an attempt be made to return home for a coal supply the chances are so small that it would result in capture, as we may rest assured that in case of war with a strong naval power, such as France, England or the United States, every one of our ports would be hermetically sealed within a few days. THE MORTAL CARLO TRAGEDY.

The Will of Robustiano Herque and His Wife Obscured the Probable.

NEW YORK, October 18.—The will of Robustiano Herque and his wife, Anita de Bivas Herque, which was filed yesterday in the Surrogate's Court, by the executors, Countess de Bivas, marked the closing acts of a tragedy which had its origin in the city of St. Louis, Mo., last March at Monte Carlo. Both testators, who were a long time residents of this city, met their deaths at the hands of the husband's brother, who afterward killed himself. About twelve years ago Robustiano de Bivas and his younger brother, Rogelio, were partners in a commission business in St. Louis, and it is said, permitted Robustiano to have full control of the firm's affairs. However, as the years rolled on, and as a result, Rogelio, whose entire fortune was in the hands of his brother, was left penniless. The blow which fell so heavily upon the younger brother did not so seriously affect Robustiano's hope, and he continued to prosper. He succeeded in accumulating a competency. Because of this fact Rogelio regarded his brother's wealth with envy, and his jealousy grew to such a point that he began to plan the death of his brother. He succeeded in his plan, and he followed Robustiano from place to place, endeavoring to kill him unless he got what he considered his rights.

NOT MR. NIEDRINGHAUS.

THE UNION LABOR PARTY'S STAND IN THE EIGHTH.

A Report of a Dislike Increases the Central Committee—W. H. Blake's Name Placed at the Head of the State Ticket and Promises a Lively Campaign—Superior of Election—Assessing the Candidates.

HE published a statement to the effect that the City Central Committee of the Union Labor party had arranged to have Phil Coghlan the Congressional nominee in the Eighth District with draw surprised the members this morning. It was reported that the committee had decided at its meeting last night to place Coghlan's name on the ticket with draw surprised the members this morning. It was reported that the committee had decided at its meeting last night to place Coghlan's name on the ticket with draw surprised the members this morning.

Several members of the committee soon today denied the truth of the statement with considerable feeling. Mr. Ed Clifton, speaking of the report this morning, said that he had no knowledge of it, and in keeping with the lies promulgated from the same source heretofore. He said he attended the meeting of the Union Labor Central Committee last night and that no reference was made to the Eighth Congressional District affairs. He said that the committee had decided to place Coghlan's name on the ticket with draw surprised the members this morning.

One of the committee men said: "That is a ghost of a story that has been going about here since the beginning of the canvass. The Republicans have made a mistake. Mr. Coghlan was offered $700 to withdraw and give his place on the ticket to Mr. Niedringhaus. Now the sentiment, I tell you, is not my own alone, but it is that of the large majority of Union Labor people in that district. Under the circumstances, Mr. Niedringhaus would be a great asset to the party. He is a man of ability and energy, and he is a man of the people. He is a man of the people. He is a man of the people."
